This case has gone on too long. I am a consumer and have not been harmed in any way by Microsoft's actions or products. In fact, I think they are one of the only companies in the industry that is trying to make the computer a usable and productive device. I will keep buying their products - if that turns them into a monopolist, then the market has spoken. So what - if someone writes a better mousetrap, I will try it, but for now no such product or company exists. I am tired of hearing about a case brought by incompetent competitors - they are just not intelligent enough to compete against Microsoft - that is hardly their fault.
